DAVEY CAMPAIGN FUND IS PROBED

(By Associated Press)
COLUMBUS, April 28.—Att'y Gen. Herbert S. Duffy summoned a special grand jury today to investigate political campaign fund donations from state civil service employees after seven workers refused to answer questions of the assistants.

A Franklin county grand jury earlier this year was ordered by Duffy to reconvene Monday morning to force testimony from striking witnesses.

Refuse to Talk
Seven sales tax division employees declined to be interviewed by an assistant attorney general soon after Duffy threw his entire office into the investigation of alleged campaign managers were "assessing" civil service employees five percent of their annual salaries.

Albert Frazier, an attorney general's investigator, asked the seven sales tax division employees to appear at Duffy's office for questioning and, he said, they refused.

J. E. Williams, Jr., chief of the sales tax division, later telephoned P. Stephenson, assistant attorney general directing the inquiry, and informed him the seven employees were "not interested" in appearing. Stephenson asked Williams whether the seven employees wished to appear voluntarily or under a subpoena. The sales tax division again interviewed the seven employees and they preferred grand jury summons.

Seven Are Named
Employees who refused to appear before John W. King of Columbus and Ed Cole of Willoughby, examiners: Florence Prescott, Elizabeth Pugh, Esther Bayer, Anne Hill and Mrs. Elizabeth Nigh, proprietors and clerks.

Stephenson said he wanted parol testimony for "well founded reasons" which he declined disclose.

All other work of the attorney general's office was suspended as Duffy assigned 24 assistants to 12 departments for an intensive check of reported political pressure being brought on civil service workers to force contributions in violation of the law.

RELIEF FROM RELIEF

There never has been any question about the possibility that relief might become a national scandal if politicians weren't chased away from it. Where there is sugar there will be flies.

Charges of corruption have been made repeatedly. Due to the widespread nature of relief, however, it has been difficult to make them stick. Criminal proceedings have been rare.

It may be assumed that top officials in the relief setup are blameless. The weak place is the administration of relief in states and localities, where political partisanship is hard to check. Politicians are realists first, last and always.

Investigations into charges of corrupt practices in Pennsylvania and Florida are under way. They are being conducted, it must be noted, by WPA itself, which naturally wouldn't strain a point to injure its own prestige.

A better approach to this touchy problem of discouraging corruption in the handling of relief money would be passage of amendment to the relief practices act, such as proposed by Rep. Barton of New York. His proposal would fix a penalty of $5,000 fine and three years' imprisonment for any official distributing government funds to influence political beliefs or acts of a recipient.

If there be valid argument against protecting the public from the well known weakness of politicians for claiming gratitude when they hand out the people's money—"where it will do them the most good"—it remains to be heard.

To permit relief to become a scandal would be to betray thousands of unfortunate persons who need, not money alone, but protection from rapacious handlers of money who would use it to enslave beneficiaries with gratitude.

A HAPPY ENDING

One of those cute legislative situations has burst into bloom over the wage-hour bill.

Northern Democrats and Republicans want to be for the bill because it's their impression that organized labor is for it.

Northern manufacturers who have no southern axes to grind are for the bill because they think it will scare their southern competitors.

The Roosevelt administration is for the bill because it has been pegged as a reform measure. The President has climbed out on a limb in favor of it.

Yet, it's easily seen that an inflexible measure of this kind fastened on the country during a depression would aggravate unemployment and interfere with pump priming. From that viewpoint, most of the friends of the bill would prefer to see it buried in a pigeonhole and permitted to collect dust.

That is exactly what is going to happen. Everybody who had something to gain by being for the proposal has had his chance; everybody who had something to gain by being against it has had his chance. Everybody's happy!

THE RATE CASE SETTLED

The Ohio Bell Telephone Co. rate case has been settled. Forty-five municipalities which joined in the case will receive refunds of more than seven million dollars.

As this long pending case closes, it is plain that nothing was settled definitely, except a money transaction to bring the litigation to a conclusion. The company, according to its president, does not believe its charges were excessive. The utilities commission did not demonstrate its ability to handle such intricate litigation effectively.

Last but not least, the subscriber, himself, cannot feel that he has gained anything tangible, aside from the rebate he will receive. But that rebate, itself, must be paid from the company's revenues.

The only clear gain in the whole thing, perhaps, is the employment which will be given to the accountants and clerks who must start to figure out where and how John Jones was using the telephone a decade ago.

SEES BUCHAREST AS CENTER OF EASTERN EUROPE

(By International News Service)

BUCHAREST, Rumania, April 28.

Now that Vienna has ceased to be an independent metropolis, King Carol has embarked upon an ambitious plan to make Bucharest the center of Eastern Europe and the Balkans.

Rumania's gay and picturesque capital, which is known in these parts of the world as "Little Paris," is the geographic point of intersection between the lines London-Paris-Vienna, Black Sea, Berlin-Istanbul, Warsaw-Sofia, Athens, Prague-Ankara and Belgrade-Black Sea.

Transportation Planned To meet the requirements of the increasing importance of Bucharest, King Carol has this week adopted a scheme for the complete transformation of the city. A great number of old buildings are to be torn down and replaced by ultra-modern structures, new roads are to be constructed, parks will be planted and no expense will be grudged to make Rumania's capital the most up to date city in Eastern Europe.

King Carol himself will supervise the reconstruction of the town. Plans are also being made to build a canal between Bucharest and the Danube in order that the capital may become in the near future a large river port.

Bridges Being Built

Meanwhile, the construction of two bridges over the Danube, one at Turnu-Severin designed to shorten by eight hours the distance between Belgrade-Bucharest and Constantza and one at Giurgiu to facilitate transports between Rumania, Bulgaria and Greece, is proceeding at full speed.

Thus, Bucharest will shortly become the transition point between the Balkans and Central Europe. It also stands a good chance of becoming an important tourist center since two hours distance by car or train one can be in the midst of the Carpathian mountains or on the Black Sea shore.

At present, Rumania's capital is a town of contrasts. An ultra-modern skyscraper may have as neighbor a shabby, evil-smelling oriental hut. On the other hand, the central parts of the city have the aspect of a prosperous American town.

City Always Gay

Incidentally Bucharest's reputation of being a "Little Paris" is well deserved as regards its gaiety. The recent political changes did not affect in the least the Rumanthe usually discordant politics of the Free State. His election without a contest seems assured.

Dr. Hyde, 78 years old, never has been in politics.

A scholar, a poet, a playwright and a gentle philosopher, he is a symbol of Irish culture, free from Irish strife. He fits perfectly the requirement that candidates for the office of president in Ireland must be non-political, possessing a record in accord with the aspirations of all the Irish people.

Together with the agreement finally reached with Great Britain, the accession of so well loved a man to the presidency should assure Ireland of an era of good feeling lasting for many years—a great tribute to the dreams and political genius of our Eamon de Valera.

HEALTH

By Dr. Royal S. Copeland, New York City.

VINCENT'S ANGINA

"Vincent's Angina" is a disease which causes much misery. It is not as prevalent as in former years, but many continue to ask questions about it. Fortunately, better care of the teeth, mouth and gums has reduced the number of cases.

In 1894, a French physician named Vincent first described the peculiar infection of the tissues of the throat and mouth, which since then has been known as Vincent's angina. During the World war, when soldiers suffered the terrible conditions of trench life, the disease was very common. It was then called "trench mouth."

The disease rarely occurs among those who have good health and are careful about their teeth and gums. Occasionally it attacks an individual who is careful about his teeth but is in a "run-down" condition. The lowered resistance of the body makes it impossible to fight off the germs of Vincent's angina.

First Symptoms

The victim notices first that the gums are tender and swollen. They bleed easily upon pressure. So sensitive are the tissues that simple brushing of the teeth becomes painful and even unbearable.

There is a bad taste in the mouth and the breath has a foul odor. Usually the patient complains of general weakness, headache and loss of appetite. Sickness at the stomach, indigestion and constipation are other signs which indicate the effect of the disease upon the general health.

There is a more alarming form of Vincent's angina. In this the sufferer runs a high fever for several weeks. Severe weakness, constant fatigue and mental depression are among the prominent symptoms. Profuse bleeding from the gums or mouth may occur and the patient gives every appearance of illness. Fortunately, this form of the ailment is not common.

Infectious Disease

Vincent's angina is a contagious or, rather, an infectious disease. It is easily passed from one person to another. Direct contact by kissing, or the use of some article contaminated by the victim, may carry the infection to another. To prevent this it is essential that the towels, linen, tableware and especially the glassware used by the sufferer from Vincent's angina, be thoroughly boiled and not used by others of the family.

Bear in mind that periodic visits to the dentist and doctor help you to guard against Vincent's angina. Careful dental treatment will get rid of the infection and prevent recurrence of the trouble. Medical care will build up the resistance and strengthen the body to throw off the disease.

"Love I Dare Not" by ALLENE CORLISS

SYNOPSIS

Alec Graham, 36, is a successful playwright. Gina Warren, still lovely at 31, has equalled his success in her own field, portrait painting. In the late summer Gina returns to New York after three months in Ohio, and meets Alec. Ten years ago they had been deeply in love but the demands of their careers had pushed aside marriage plans until now their friendship has become almost casual. Alec announces that his mining engineer nephew, Tommy Gale, is returning after three years in South America. Gina, too, expects a visitor. Her 19-year-old cousin, whom she has never seen, intends to study history in New York. In her own words, this cousin has "dramatic ability and is willing to work hard."

CHAPTER III

"She's practically a success this minute."

"Don't be cynical, Alec. You came to New York once yourself with much the same qualifications."

"I suppose I did, at that. But you rushed to death now without taking on some stage-struck girl. What on earth do you intend to do with her... and is she good-looking?"

"I don't know. I've never seen her. Her mother was. Years ago I came on from Ohio to be flower girl at her wedding. A few years after that I came East for good and earned that she and her husband had both been killed in a motor accident and that there was a little girl I got into the habit of sending the child a Christmas present, and once a year she wrote to me acknowledging it. Then this summer, while I was in Ohio, I had a letter from her. Her grandfather had died and his income had stopped with his death. She had a little money, about a thousand dollars, and she wanted to come to New York this fall instead of going back to college. I wrote back and tried to discourage her, but I told her that if she was determined to come anyway, I could put her up while she was looking around for a place to live permanently."

"And of course she wrote straight back and accepted your kind invitation?"

"Yes. She'll be showing up any day now, I suppose, and I have promised her that if she still wants to go on with it, after she finds out how hard and exacting a business the theater really is, I have some friends who will be useful."

"Meaning me, I suppose?" grinned Alec.

"Who else?"

"Well, I won't do a thing about it. Give the girl a good time and send her back to Maine. Tell her to finish college and teach school or, better yet, get married and start raising a family."

"But supposing she really has something?"

"What, for instance?"

"Well, beauty, ambition, a real talent..."

"I'd still send her back. She'll be happier."

Alec walked over to Fifth Avenue and picked up a cab going south.

"So you're not in favor of careers for women, Alec?" Gina's mobile mouth tipped humorously at the corners. Her eyes laughed at him.

"I don't know about that. I'm not in favor of cluttering up my life encouraging them... or of having you do it, either. I almost never see you alone anymore and I'll see even less of you with this girl around."

"If you never see me alone, it's your own fault, Alec. I haven't moved for ten years and I'm still in the telephone book."

"I know you are. It's just one of those things." He stared at her thoughtfully for a moment, then he said, "What's happened to us, Gina? Where, along the way, did we lose each other?"

She laid her cheek against her hand and met his eyes steadily. She said slowly, "I don't know, Alec. And it's something I haven't allowed myself to think about for years. So much has happened to both of us since that time when we spent all our free evenings looking for apartments at sixty dollars a month. It was nineteen twenty-four, Alec, and there weren't many at that price... that is, many desirable ones."

He couldn't tell from her voice, or the steady way her eyes looked at him, whether she was emotionally disturbed or not. He wondered abruptly what she would do if he leaned across the table and said,

"Listen, Gina, we were a lot in love with each other once... we could be again. Let's try to be, and this time let's do something about it."

After all, why not? To marry her and go away with her to some quiet place, to be less concerned with the making of money and fame and more concerned with close human relationships... wasn't that perhaps the answer to all this restlessness and boredom that had been possessing him for months? Wasn't it possible that married to each other they might even yet recapture something of that first young ecstasy that had been theirs in that long ago New York springtime? If they gave time and attention and thought to it, couldn't they still have what they had missed?

He didn't know. He wasn't sure. But he was tempted, more urgently than he had been in a number of years, to ask her.

And he might have if just then she had not discovered that it was six-thirty and she had to run. She said, saying good-by to him, and distressed by his obvious and unusual disappointment at having her leave him, "Why don't you go along down to Tenth street later and I'll break away from Barry as soon as I can and come home early."

"I may do that. I seem to be more or less at a loose end this evening. And if you get away by nine-thirty we might catch the last act of Dick's play—it's always worth dropping in on."

Gina promised to do her best, and he took her back to the Ritz, and watched her disappear through the Forty-sixth street entrance. Then he walked over to Fifth avenue and picked up a cab going south.

SACRAMENTO, Calif.—The government's new $7,000,000 Sacramento air depot—largest and most complete shop in the country for keeping trim military fighting planes and huge bombers in shape—is scheduled to be in full operation by March 15, 1933.

Army quartermaster corps and civilian engineers in charge of construction at the depot, five miles northeast of Sacramento toward the foothills of the Sierra Nevada, report work is weeks ahead of schedule.

Air corps officers and enlisted men, with a large detail of civilian mechanics, will be working at the depot soon after the first of next year as some of the units of the repair base are placed in operation.

As officers and mechanics are transferred to the Sacramento depot, Rockwell Field at Coronado, Calif., near San Diego, gradually will be turned over to the navy.

Used During World War

Rockwell Field has served as a repair base for the army corps since World war days but has been antiquated by rapid strides of army aviation.

The Sacramento depot will service all military planes on the Pacific coast. Until completion of a similar but smaller depot at Hickam Field near Schofield barracks in the Hawaiian islands, the California base will act as repair headquarters for army planes for the entire Pacific area.

Sacramento was selected for the new depot because of its location. Near a large navigable river and adjacent to two transcontinental marine railroad tracks, it is considered far enough from the coast to be comparatively safe from possible raids by enemy planes if the United States should be invaded.

Living quarters for 20 officers and their families, as well as about 120 enlisted men, are virtually complete. In final stages are a hospital, fire and guard house and post exchange, all located in one corner of the 12,000 acres of former farm land, purchased by the army and set aside as a military reservation.

Hangars Are Rising

Steel trusses for a three-unit hangar whose roof covers 7½ acres are in place. Workmen are now fastening asbestos-protected corrugated metal covering on the bare supports.

The hangars are 200 feet deep. Rectangular doors that slide back into special pockets in the side of the structure close an opening 250 feet wide and 38 feet high.

Largest bombers in regular army service at present have a wingspread of only 128 feet and a height of 23 feet, but, engineers explained, the depot is designed for future development in aircraft.

HELP KIDNEYS PASS 3 LBS. A DAY

Doctors say your kidneys contain 15 miles of tiny tubes or filters which help to purify the blood and keep you healthy. Most people pass about 3 pints a day or about 3 pounds of waste. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning shows there may be something wrong with your kidneys or bladder. An excess of acids or poisons in your blood, when due to functional kidney disorders, may be the cause of nagging backache, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up at night, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.

Sen. Norris Recalls Ohio Boyhood Days During Conference

(By Associated Press)
WASHINGTON, April 28.—White-haired Senator Norris (Ind-Neb) recalled events of more than 60 years ago today when he promised to help an Ohio delegation promote a flood control project near his old home.
Representatives of four counties in north central Ohio called the 75-year-old Nebraskan from the senate floor to show him photographs and other evidence of flood damage last year near his farm birthplace in Sandusky county, O.
Norris, chuckling at boyhood memories, asked about neighbors and friends still in the area.
"How long since you left there senator?" someone asked.
"Oh gosh, it's been a hundred years or so," Norris said with a twinkle in his eyes.
Mayor R. E. Woleslagel of Bellevue, O., explained that the flood control project actually resulted from a lack of rivers and streams.
Water in the four county areas of Sandusky, Seneca, Huron and Erie drains into underground caverns and sinkholes. Heavy rains last year caused these sinkholes on low farm lands to become gushers and resulted in "millions of dollars damage."

"That condition did not exist there when I was a boy," Norris said.
The Ohio group is seeking $2,000,000 to construct ditches and canals.

Sen. Borah Opposed To Compromise Tax Bill Up For Vote

WASHINGTON, April 28.—Senator Borah (R-Idaho) expressed opposition today to the compromise tax bill because it omits his proposal to wipe out tax exemptions on future federal security issues.
Despite his objections, leaders predicted congressional approval of the $3,330,000,000 measure on which a joint committee has agreed.
Borah contended his proposal would carry out at least part of the recommendations of President Roosevelt, who asked congress Monday to eliminate tax exemptions on all future securities and salaries of both national and state governments.
The senate originally had approved Borah's suggestion, but Senator Harrison (D-Miss) said house committee and treasury representatives argued that it should be rejected and that the President's recommendations should be considered as separate legislation.

Mrs. Hahn Denied New Trial After Attorney Appeals

COLUMBUS, April 28.—Anna Marie Hahn, sentenced to be electrocuted in Ohio penitentiary May 4 for the murder-by-poison of Jacob Wagner, 78, of Cincinnati, was denied a rehearing by the Ohio supreme court Wednesday on her appeal for a new trial.
The court previously had turned down her appeal on the ground that no debatable constitutional question was involved. Atty Joseph Hoodin, one of Mrs. Hahn's counsel, in arguing for a rehearing, contended that substantial debatable questions had been presented.
Hoodin is expected to request Ohio's chief justice, Carl V. Weygandt, for permission to appeal to the United States Supreme Court. An appeal to the federal tribunal automatically would stay the execution.
Mrs. Hahn, who has been in the penitentiary since Dec. 1, originally was scheduled to die March 10, but the electrocution was delayed by the appeal to Ohio's highest court.

WILLIAMSPORT, Pa.—John M. Young, whose home is near a street intersection, became weary of automobiles crashing into his yard fence and porch.
So he strung a steel cable along the front of the fence. That worked until George Haines came by. Haines' truck found a vulnerable spot—the gate.

Boy Who Slew Own Mother Sentenced

CHICAGO, April 28.—Fourteen years in prison is the penalty decreed for Theodore Daniels, 16-year-old high school boy convicted of murdering his crippled mother.

Chief Justice Cornelius J. Harrington of the criminal court was pale and shaken when he announced the verdict and imposed sentence yesterday.
The young defendant—an "average boy" in the eyes of his friends—burst into tears. His father, Theodore, Sr., sobbed audibly in the hushed courtroom.

Young Daniels was accused of strangling and stabbing his mother last March 3 when she shook him because he played hookey from school. Her body was found with a nine-inch bread knife imbedded in the throat.

Cuyahoga County Refuses to Throw Support
To Secretary

Some Democratic observers believe Governor Davey, if nominated, would be supported in the general election by a lot of Republican business men who could not support him in the primary. Recalls CIO Stand Poulson said that "Governor Davey will get a tremendous lot of backing in the general election from Republicans who admired his stand on questions involving the CIO and Communistic groups." In connection with the governor's lack of strength in Cuyahoga county, a Democratic analyst described the situation as true to form.

The Cuyahoga county Democratic chieftains, he said, have divided their support in the last two gubernatorial primaries in order to make as certain as possible that the organization as a whole would be on the winning side.

In Bitter Custody Fight

Mrs. Florence Orr and her children

Bitter custody fight between Mrs. Florence Orr, Beverly Hills, Cal., realtor, and her husband over their two children, Willard III, 9, and Priscilla, 8, ends in kidnapping charges filed in Chicago against Mrs. Orr by her husband. Mrs. Orr, shown in Los Angeles with her children where she voluntarily surrendered, denies the kidnapping charges in which the husband says his wife "forcibly and secretly confined and imprisoned" the children and carried them out of Illinois. Mrs. Orr maintains that under the conditions of her California divorce she was given custody of the children.

Discuss Federal Pump Priming

Congressional leaders at White House

Plans for spending hundreds of millions of dollars to stimulate industry and extend relief were discussed when President Roosevelt conferred with congressional leaders at the White House, above. Among those present at parley were, left to right, Representative Edward Taylor of Colorado, chairman of house appropriations committee; Senator Alben Barkley of Kentucky, senate majority leader; Senator Carter Glass of Virginia, chairman of the senate appropriations committee; Senator Kenneth McKellar of Tennessee, member of senate appropriations committee; Representative Sam Rayburn of Texas, house majority leader, and Representative Clifton Woodrum of Virginia, member house appropriations committee.

ated that no specific business subject was discussed, but that the President and he dealt only in the most general terms about "what's going on and what's being done in the country."

He was asked whether they had considered the application to industry of the principle of annual wages, under which workers would be guaranteed a specified yearly income.

Ford said of the annual wage idea, "I never heard about it—only in the newspapers."

He declared also that he gave the President no advice, recalling that "I said when I came down that I wasn't going to give any advice."

President Confers
Meanwhile the President held an increasing number of conferences with administration officials in preparation for starting his proposed spending-lending program, now before congress.

He canvassed prospects yesterday with Harry L. Hopkins, works progress administrator, and Representative Woodrum (D., Va.), chairman of a house appropriations subcommittee.

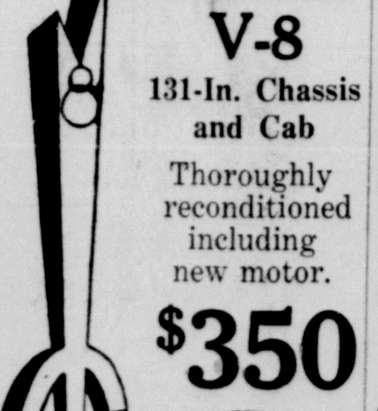

Woodrum said that in writing legislation, stress would be put on using "no more funds or credit than is absolutely necessary to get the building program under way quickly."

Emphasis also will be laid on selecting "public works projects that can be got under way immediately," he added, and on constructing widely distributed works that "will be of permanent value."

MAY CUT CLASS A SOFTBALL LOOP TO 6 TEAMS

TEAMS FIGURE ON COMBINING FOR SOFTBALL

Trades Class May Unite With Ohio Edison In Class A League

Talk of the Trades Class and Ohio Edison combining into one team circulated around Class A softball league circles today, while the Class B league sat back and waited for the opening of its 1938 season at Centennial park Monday evening.

Although the Class A circuit is also scheduled to start its summer campaign Monday, plans for the opening of the season have been delayed, pending the outcome of the recent decision of the two teams to combine.

J. M. (Joe) Kelley, manager of the Memorial butting and director of the leagues, expected to learn today whether the Trades Class and Ohio Edison will unite as one team.

If the two combine, the Class A circuit will probably be cut to six teams. Listed as definitely sure to play in the Class A league are the following teams: Old Timers, 1937 champion; Mullins, Salem News, Demings and the CIO.

Kelley said that the Salem China, which has supported a team in the Class A league for a great many years, does not plan to sponsor a team this year. This leaves seven teams as possible members of the circuit, and if the Trades Class and Ohio Edison combine the membership will be reduced to six teams.

The majority of softball followers are in favor of a six-team league inasmuch as it promotes faster and stiffer opposition and greater rivalry. However, the drawback to a league of this size is that it requires additional pitching strength.

The Class B league will be composed of the same eight teams as last year. The first round schedule for the Class B circuit is as follows:

Monday, May 2

6:30—Baptists vs. Christians.

COLORED BALL USED IN GAME

College Nines Battle It Out On Diamond With Yellow Sphere

NEW YORK, April 28.—The jury is out on the new yellow baseball

Frederic H. Rahr hopes to introduce to the national game.

The colored missile, which Rahr,

a colored engineer, claims is easier to follow in flight and on the ground, was used in Columbia's 8 to victory over Fordham yesterday.

A crowd of about 1,500, which included a sprinkling of professional and semi-professional baseball officials, watched the test case.

The coaches, Andy Conkey of Columbia and Jack Coffey of Fordham, agreed the fancy sphere had not had a fair test.

"One game isn't enough," said

Coffey, "but I'm inclined to like it."

Coffey declared he thought the ball was dead in the first seven innings. The players themselves agreed it was easier to see at the plate but added there was little or no difference in the field.

CINCINNATI, April 28.—High scores marked up during the first half of the Women's National Bowling Congress tournament remained unmarried today as legions from three cities failed to come near the leaders last night.

Stagehand, Derby Hope on Hand

Earl Sande and Stagehand

Stagehand, favorite to win the Kentucky Derby, is on hand at Louisville, Ky., track and in the keeping of his trainer, Earl Sande, shown above with the horse. Sande refused to predict a win for Stagehand.

Detimore-Buchfeller Win Ladies Doubles Tourney

Mrs. Margaret Detimore and Miss Mary Buchfeller combined bowling talents at the Masonic temple alleys last night to capture first place in the doubles event of the annual Masonic Ladies' league handicap tenpin tournament. Their score was 1015.

Mrs. Detimore paced the championship performance with games of 163, 174 and 185 for a 522 total. Miss Buchfeller had 460 for the three games. The two winners were allowed 33 pins handicap.

Bowling from scratch, Mrs. Ruth Hine and Miss Stella Smith finished second in the doubles event with 966. Mrs. Hine turned in a 461 series, while Miss Smith had 491.

Mrs. Frieda Orr and Miss Hecattia Tucker took third place with a 937 score, including a 15-pin handicap. Mrs. Orr's three-game score was 441, while Miss Tucker totaled 481.

Other doubles teams finished in the following order: White-Fisher, 908; Mohr-McCrea, 892; Hall-Harhoff, 885; Akens-Ramsey, 873; Reich-Kline, 859; Zines-Caldwell, 855; Mounts-Hasey, 836; Kniseley-Robinson, 834.

JOCKEYS PICK STAGEHAND TO CAPTURE RACE

Maxwell Howard's Horse Favored In Derby By Top Riders

By ORLO ROBERTSON.

NEW YORK, April 28.—By the narrow majority of two votes, a jury of 12 of the country's foremost jockeys today named Maxwell Howard's Stagehand as the probable winner of the Kentucky

Derby at Churchill Downs May 7.

The Earl Sande-trained son of Sickle, conqueror of Seabiscuit in the Santa Anita handicap, received votes of confidence from five of the experts. Three cast their ballots for William Woodward's Fighting

Fox, two for Dauber from William

DuPont, Jr.'s Foxcatcher farm, and one each for W. S. Kilmer's Nedary and Hal Price Headley's Menow.

Stagehand received the support of Nick Wall, Johnny Gilbert, Lester Balaski, Johnny Longden and Earl Porter.

Jimmy Stout, who will ride

Fighting Fox, and Tommy Malley and Sammy Renick favored the Fox, a full brother of the great Gallant Fox. Stout missed a chance to ride in his first derby two years ago when he was tossed from Granville's back at the start of the race.

Bobby Merritt and R. L. Vedder, one of the leading jockeys of the year, lined up behind Dauber, beaten by only half a length by Stagehand in the Santa Anita derby.

Although there is a chance he will not get to ride Menow, Charley Kurtsinger, winner with War Admiral last year, stuck with the speedy Headley colt. Kurtsinger's suspension for disobedience to Trainer Hugh Fontaine of the Brookmeade stable may not be lifted before derby time.

Wayne Wright was the lone supporter of Nedary but he saw promise in the colt's race back of Merry

Lassie at Jamaica Saturday.

COLOMBO, Ceylon—Moonlight

parties for women only on three days of the month in the Victoria arises from the anxiety of one of the Moslem members of the Council for the women of his commu-

TERRY ALTERS ATTACK STYLE TO HELP TEAM

Coaches from Third, Telling His Men to Hit, Rather than Wait

By GAYLE TALBOT

Associated Press Sports Writer

The biggest change of the baseball season has come over Manager

Bill Terry, whose New York Giants were in a dead heat with Pittsburgh

today for the leadership of the National league, with eight wins and a single loss.

Bill is doing his coaching now from third base and he's spending practically all his time signalling his men to hit the ball. In past seasons Bill's idea of offensive strategy was to draw a walk, then sacrifice and then score, if possible, on a two-base error.

It must not have been had strategy, as within the Giants' record of three pennants in five years under the old colonel. But now Bill has his boys swinging from their shoe-tops. They have hit 13 home runs and are overwhelming the eastern half of their opposition.

Terry considers his present Giant team the best he has managed, even with his regular second baseman,

Burgess Whitehead, back in the hospital for perhaps a month as an aftermath of an appendectomy.

In swamping the Phillies twice yesterday, 7 to 3 and 11 to 6, the Polo Grounders pummeled a total of 27 hits, and Terry didn't signal for a bunt all afternoon. In the seventh inning of the second game they put over six runs on five solid smacks, including home runs by Hank Leiber and Joe Moore.

Pittsburgh prevented the Giants from taking full possession of the lead by defeating the Chicago Cubs

6 to 5. Arky Vaughan, slugging Pirate shortstop, supplied the winning margin when he hit the jackpot in the seventh inning—a home run with the bases loaded.

The Brooklyn snapped a four-game losing streak by belting four Boston Red Sox twirlers for 17 hits and a 13 to 2 victory.

Freddie Fitzsimmons of the winners allowed one hit for the first six innings.

Lon Warneke brought the St.

Louis Cardinals out of their pro-

Theater Attractions

"Jezebel," film attraction at the State tonight, Friday and Saturday, gives its star, Bette Davis, a new opportunity for the kind of deft characterization in which she excels.

In "Of Human Bondage," in which she played opposite Leslie Howard, she gave a brilliant and merciless characterization of Somerset Maugham's beautiful and vicious Cockney waitress.

In "Dangerous," which won her the Academy award for the best screen performance of the year, she played a drink-sodden beauty who ruined the lives of all her lovers.

"Marked Woman" showed her as a hard-boiled night club hostess, part of an underworld mob.

But these characters were heroic.

Special Stamp Will Mark Air Mail Week

A distinctive, two-color air mail stamp will be issued by the postoffice department as a special recognition of National Air Mail week.

May 15 to 21, it was announced today by Postmaster A. E. Beardmore.

The stamp will be of six-cent denomination, the same size as the commemorative issues. The border of distinctive air mail design, will be printed in blue and the central design will be in red. This design will depict an eagle with outstretched wings, bearing in its talons a shield, olive wreath and a bundle of arrows. Numerous ornamental details have been included in the over-all design.

The stamp first will be placed on sale May 14, at Dayton, which is the home of the Wright brothers, who built the first successful airplane, and at St. Petersburg, Fla., where the first passenger flight was made.

On the following days of air mail week, the stamp will be on sale at the thousands of postoffices throughout the United States.

KIRKLAND LAKE, Ont.—A local man was rummaging through an old trunk when he came upon a pile of stock certificates, yellow with age. They had been left him by a brother who died 20 years ago. Their value was estimated at $180,000.

Among Outstanding Rookies

Bill McGee

Back with the St. Louis Cardinals after a highly successful year with the Columbus Redbirds, Bill McGee is expected to be a valuable addition to the St. Louis pitching staff. He has had four years' training in the minors and led the American association last season in earned run averages.

lines of sweetness and light compared with Julie, the "Jezebel" of pre-Civil War New Orleans. Heartless selfish and spoiled, she defies all the traditions of the day — sends away the man she loves because of a silly whim. Next she proceeds to break the heart and spirit of another dashing cavalier. His life ends in a duel fought over her. When her former beau marries another woman, she exerts all her old charm to win him away from his wife.

"Jezebel" is a drama laid in New Orleans in the early 1850's just before the yellow fever scourge descended upon the picturesque city.

Miss Davis portrays a spoiled, utterly selfish young socialite who takes pleasure in scoffing at all the ancient traditions of her class and period. But she is regenerated in the end by sacrifices she makes to help her chief suitor, played by Henry Fonda.

Brent Is a Rival

A rival beau is played by George Brent. Other capable performers in the high class supporting cast include Margaret Lindsay, Fay Bainter, Donald Crisp, Richard Cromwell, Henry O'Neill, Janet Little, Spring Byington, John Shaw and Margaret Early.

Bob Baker, cowboy star, is featured in "Border Wolves," a new western action drama that will be seen at the Grand Friday and Saturday.

Constance Moore, Fuzzy Knight, Dickie Jones, Frank Campeau and Dick Dorell have roles in the picture.

The double bill concluding tonight at the Grand offers: Joan Fontaine and Allan Lane in "Maiden Night Out," a romantic comedy about a runaway heiress posing as a housemaid and an errant millionaire disguised as a milkman; and "Forbidden Valley," featuring Noah Beery, Jr. and Frances Robinson.
